

Global allocation to help diversify your portfolio

A worldly perspective for your retirement strategy

BlackRock knows the importance of diversification for your retirement savings goals. That's why they designed the BlackRock Dynamic Allocation Index to deliver global exposure and help protect and hedge against inflation. A Lincoln fixed indexed annuity offers crediting options tied to the performance of the BlackRock Dynamic Allocation Index.

To highlight the importance of diversification, let's look at how cyclical markets can be. The asset class that outperforms over a 10-year period might underperform over the next decade. Below shows the performance of U.S. and international equities in the recent past.

Decade	U.S. stocks outperform	Int'l. stocks outperform
1980s		X
1990s	X
2000s		X
2010s	X
2020s	?	?

Above chart shows the performance overall for the decades listed.

So why should you consider global allocation?

The graph below shows us that one market can not only outperform, but for long periods of time. Currently, U.S. equities are in their longest stretch of outperformance by 100%. But how long will it continue? Consider diversifying your portfolio with international equities. Use the crediting options tied to the performance of the BlackRock Dynamic Allocation Index in a Lincoln fixed indexed annuity for a strategy that offers global exposure for your retirement savings.
