

Protection with greater predictability

Performance trigger option

A volatile market could be cause for concern, especially for those approaching retirement. Consider adding a level of protection to your portfolio plus opportunities to grow your savings with Lincoln Level Advantage®. You can choose from a range of indexed account options, including the performance trigger detailed below.

Why a performance trigger may be right for you

You want the confidence of knowing what rate your investment will earn in an up or flat market, regardless of the index growth rate.

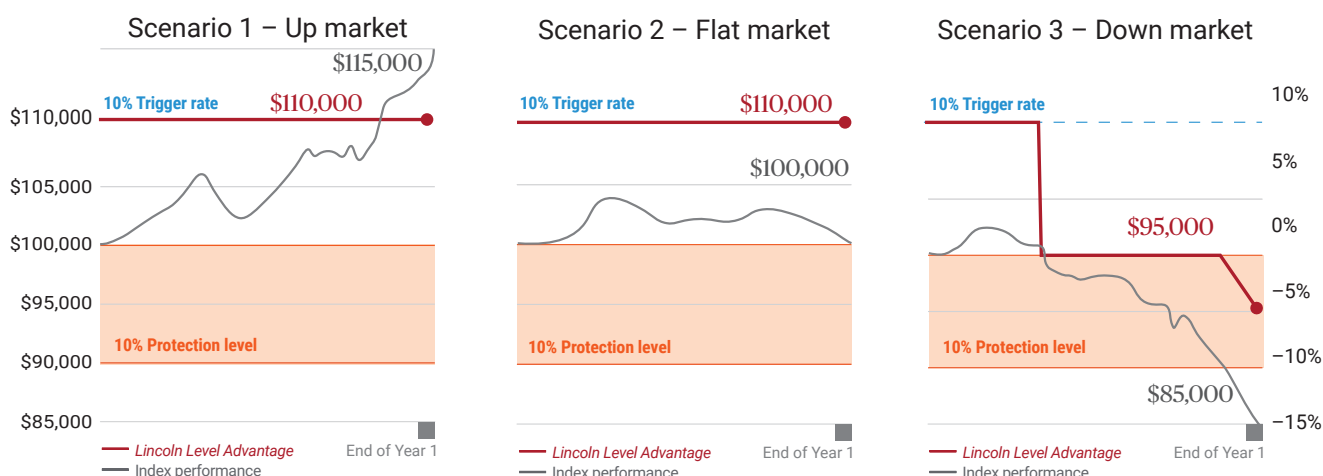

You want the flexibility to reinvest or reallocate every year.

You want several protection level options, including 10%, 15% and 20%.

How it works

With the performance trigger strategy, your account is credited a set amount, called a trigger rate, if the index change is positive or flat at the end of the term. If the index return is negative, you can help protect it with a protection level. This example shows what would happen if you invested $100,000 in a 1-year indexed account with a performance trigger. The performance trigger rate is 10% and there is a 10% protection level to help protect from market index loss.

Trigger rate	10%	Trigger rate	10%	Protection level	10%
Index change	15%	Index change	0%	Index change	-15%
Account value	$110,000	Account value	$110,000	Account value	$95,000

Example is hypothetical and for illustrative purposes only. It is not indicative of real results. A new performance trigger rate is declared for each additional term. The performance trigger rate is credited to your account at the end of the term if the index change is positive or flat. Indexed accounts are tied to a market index performance, but they are not an actual investment in the stock market. You cannot invest directly in an index. The chart does not reflect the interim value.

Any distribution or transfer from an indexed account (other than on the term end date) is based on the interim value of each indexed segment. This value is based on a formula and may not correspond to the current performance of the index you selected. Any distribution or transfer during a term will have a negative impact on the value at the end of the term. This reduction could be larger than the dollar amount of the distribution or transfer. See prospectus for details.

The risk of loss occurs each time you move into a new indexed account after the end of an indexed term. If the negative return is in excess of the protection level selected, there is a risk of loss of principal. Protection levels that vary based on the index and term selected are subject to change and may not be available with every option.
